ABOUT THE STATE

Newell Bigelow of Store has raised this year (from seven and one fifth square rods) 15 bushels of nice potatoes, an average of 335 bushels to the acre.

The Eosburg Falls Condensed Milk Co. is planning the erection of a large building for the manufacture of the cans in which the milk will be put up.
The building will be put up near the other factory and will employ about 40 men.

The Rutland board of aldermen Monday night granted a franchise to the Home Telephone Co. of Vermont. The major voted a similar franchise some time ago but as the telephone company has agreed to properly indemnify the city this one is expected to stand.

As William Blanchard of Rutland was running the planer in the mill of the Rutland Manufacturing Co. Thursday morning his fingers were in some way drawn into the machine and the hand was lacerated quite badly. It was necessary to amputate the third finger.

Charles L. Streeter, who lives near North Panton, was shot in the back while passing by some woods near the old Jones place Monday night. Mr.
Streeter had on an ordinary coat lined with sheepskin which no doubt saved his life as many of the shot were caught in the coat. A number of them were imbedded in his back. The attack on Mr. Streeter is a mystery.

Silas Whitcomb of Hyde Park met with an accident Tuesday which it was thought would destroy his eyesight but it was found later that his eyes were not injured. He was blasting some rock out of a well with dynamite. As the blast did not go off when expected Whitcomb looked over the edge of the well just as the explosion took place.
Dirt and gravel were ground into his face but it is thought that he will come out with no serious results.

While returning from Whitefield J.
E. Walker of St. Johnsbury, a plain common granite manufacturer was the victim of a series of accidents. He had reached Stiles pond with a party in his auto when a chain broke and another machine was sent to draw the other in.
Things went well until they reached the outskirts of St. Johnsbury when the leading auto's steering gear went wrong and the trouble began. The leading machine went into a telephone pole and then over the front steps of a house with the broken car following the course set by the leader. When the first one finally stopped the other bumped into it with such force that the whole party was thrown out. Both machines were wrecked.

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE OPENS.

President Thomas Gives Address on "The Ideals of Middlebury."

Middlebury, Sept. 24.—The opening exercises of Middlebury college were held yesterday morning in the Congregational church and were largely attended. After devotional exercises President Thomas made an address on "The Ideals of Middlebury." He stated that the attitude of criticism toward American colleges in general, which now prevails, ought to deliver Middlebury from the spirit of imitation. Continuing, he said: "We want here our own college, the college which ought to be in response to the situation in which Middlebury finds herself, like none other East or West, learning from all and cordial to suggestions from every source, but imitating none. We want a Middlebury spirit which can be distinguished from the temper of enthusiasm and ambition which prevails elsewhere, which we would not exchange if we could."

I think it is agreed that we want here a college of the simple life, a plain college, in which extravagance shall not be popular and students who have to rely largely on their own endeavors, and those who can count upon only moderate sums for the acquirement of education, but also such student habits and practices as will not make them feel out of place." He said also that Middlebury must be a college which does its full duty to both men and women.
The successful working out of the problem of the "education of both men and women in the same college and the same location, under the same corporation and faculty, and in an eastern institution, will be a triumph of no uncertain value.
It has been attempted elsewhere in the East, and has failed; but here, where greatly to the damage of the colleges where they have occurred. Our great eastern colleges, their presidents, corporations and faculties, are afraid of the girls. If we can work out the problem and achieve success, it will mean more than we realize, and Middlebury will be known in the world as a college which has done what others have been afraid to dare.

"I believe a college ought to be a place of intellectual interests, where minds are broadened and faculties trained to a degree impossible among those who have not had the opportunity of continued study under the leadership of trained minds."

"Most any man can be clever now and then, but the sound, practical wisdom and the grit to do the right thing every day even when it is hard, even when you are tired and have the right to be tired, is the most difficult of attainments, and the one therefore we should most arouse ourselves to reach."

A number of new courses were announced, including a course in sociology by Miss White, the new dean of women.
A new system of entrance entrance has been established in connection with the deans' offices.
Prizes in the departments of history and English to the annual value of $120 were announced for the next three years.
They will be awarded to junior and senior women, to men in history and to women in English.
In closing President Thomas said: "I feel very confident that we are opening the best year Middlebury ever had. The college never offered to her students so much as she is offering to you to-day.
She was never so well organized for effective prosecution of her activities.
Her professors were never more determined to render the utmost that is in them for your good and for the improvement of our college. We had never so many friends outside, never so many who are watching what we do. We have to-day the largest number of students ever enrolled at the beginning of a Middlebury year, the largest freshman class, the largest number both of men and women ever entering at one time, and, if I mistake not, the largest number of grit and endurance, the most studious resolution and the strongest faith in God, to make our Middlebury the best college for us that ever set itself to the building of American manhood."

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

John Doyle Had Evaded The Officers
Some Time.

Brattleboro, Sept. 24.—John Doyle, of Brattleboro, was turned over to the state authorities yesterday by the police of Hinsdale, N. H., charged with rape on a 13-year-old girl in Windham.
The assault took place some time ago but the complaint and the warrant for his arrest were issued but a few days ago by State's Attorney Williams, of Bellows Falls. Following the arrest, Doyle escaped from Windham, leaving his wife and four small children, and went to Hinsdale. Officers went to Windham to arrest him but were unable to locate him. His whereabouts were learned by Deputy Sheriff Dan P. Thompson, who lived in his home and overheard Mrs.
Doyle talking to her children.
She came to Brattleboro and thence to Hinsdale. She was followed by the state officers and her husband was tracked through her movements. An auto was procured and the deputy sheriffs went to get their man, but he escaped to Windham. Mountain where he has since been in hiding.
He was captured by the Hinsdale police Wednesday afternoon and was turned over to the Vermont officials yesterday morning. He refused to return to the state without extradition papers but later changed his mind and was taken to Newfane last evening and lodged in jail to await trial by the Windham county court.

A Hurry-up Call.

"Quick! Mr. Duggins, quick! A box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, here's a hurry! For the love of Moses, hurry!
Baby's burned himself terribly, Johnnie cut his foot with the axe, Mamie's scalded. Pa can't walk from piles, Billie has boils, and my corns ache." She got it and soon cured all the family. It's the greatest heal-all on earth. Sold by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

HUNTER'S LAW INTERPRETATION.

No Oath Can Be Administered Under
It Says Attorney General.

Attorney General Sargent of Vermont has sent the following interpretation of the Vermont hunter's license law to the several state's attorneys of Vermont:
I am recently in receipt of many letters from town clerks, and others concerning the matter of the oath required by the form furnished by the State Fish & Game Commission for applicants for hunters licenses, and the fee charged by town clerks for administering such oath. Some town clerks it seems, are charging $1.00 a fee and some $2.00 and perhaps some more. Of course, you will see by examination of the statute, that no oath to the facts stated in the applications is required by law, and from that you will at once conclude that any oath administered to the maker of such application is of no effect, and that the person administering such oath becomes liable to prosecution, under the provisions of R. S.
5,917, and that any fees received therefor are received without consideration.
I have uniformly written the persons asking about these matters, that I must be excused from replying, as the law imposes upon me the duty of advising state officers only, and have referred them to the state's attorneys of their respective counties.

Yours truly,
John G. Sargent.

As Good as He Sent.
At a recent meeting of the directors of an eastern railroad a prominent railroad man repeated a story that he just had from a conductor on one of the limited expresses between New York and the west.

It seems that a dapper chap in the first chair car had managed to become unusually friendly with an attractive young woman in an adjoining seat.
When the train pulled into Buffalo the man, in taking leave of the lady, remarked:
"Do you know, I must thank you for an awfully awfully pleasant time, but I'm afraid you would not have been so nice to me and you know that I was a married man."
"Oh, as to that," quickly and pleasantly responded the charming young woman, "you haven't the least advantage of me. I am an escaped lunatic."

Not Fireproof.

To the editor of the Little Maine newspaper there came the other day an indignant elderly woman, who waved a slip of paper in the editorial face.
"Look here!" said she. "What does this mean—a bill for the Citizens in my husband that's been dead two years You don't expect his widow to pay debts of his contracted long after he's dead?"
"You may be but not getting the paper!" said the editor, after long thought.

"No, ye deaderhead!" screamed the woman. "I tell you he's been dead two years!"
"Strange," mused the editor. "The Post Office Department has not notified me of his failure to receive them. Quite sure you yourself haven't been enjoying the estimable educational values of a perusal of my sheet?"

"That isn't the point," argued the widow. "You're been sending a notice-paper and a bill to a man that's dead."
"Well," said the editor finally, preceiving that he must be a loser, "in future, madam, I will cause an extra copy to be printed on subsections to inform you of the latest news of your husband regularly."—Philadelphia Ledger.
